HEALTHY BOWELS

Nine-tenths of human sickness, from infancy to old age, comes from stomach or bowels being out of order.

Headaches, tired feeling, nervous depression, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness and many other signs of sickness stop, if you treat the stomach and bowels right and get them into working order.

The prescription, known as Dr. True's Elixir, has done wonders for sick people, men, women and children, because it is the one remedy that you can rely on to set things right in the stomach and bowels. Sold by all druggists, big or little, everywhere. Druggists, as a rule, are very honest. They do not try to substitute something else for Dr. True's Elixir, because they know its value. Many druggists use it in their own families.

Accidents will Happen

Do you know how much your motor-car is worth to you?

You know what it cost, and you can make a reasonably close estimate of its depreciation, but suppose your car is damaged, stolen, or destroyed, WHAT THEN? Will it be a partial or total loss?

Every day you read of cars being stolen from garages or while standing in the street. Grave danger of fire or explosion always exists where gasoline is used. Collisions are of every day occurrence, and cannot always be prevented, even by careful driving. YOU may be the next to suffer loss—you cannot tell.

Which is wiser—to take the risk yourself, or to shift the responsibility upon those whose business it is to assume such risks?

We will insure your car against Fire, Theft, Personal Liability, Property Damage, Collision or the hazards of transportation.

Note the Model Number, Make and Model Year of your car and mail to us to-day and we will tell you how you can estimate the exact value of your car at any time, whether it be standing safely in your Garage or lying by the roadside, a piece of tangled JUNK.

POLLY FORTY-SEVEN YEARS OLD

Mrs. Isabel A. Blake of New Brunswick, N. Y., a subscriber to the advertiser writes the following about her parrot.

In your paper not long ago you spoke of the length of life of a parrot. I have one that I know will be 47 years old Thanksgiving. She is a yellow headed bird, never in her cage except at night, goes all round the house, sits at the table with the family, has coffee and would like to have it sweet, when any of the family are sick she has her breakfast upstairs, will say, "Polly wants supper," and expects to have it. I am the one I suppose that answers her and she calls me "Polly." If away from home she will go around the house calling "Polly wants Polly."

She enjoys the telephone. Not long ago she talked from New Brunswick, N. Y., to Williamsport, Penn., to a member of the family. We would be very lonely with out "Polly" Blake.

TRUTHFUL FISH STORIES

Sugar Island, Mooshead Lake, June 27, 1919

The long threatened rain has arrived and I have an opportunity to write. For the past three weeks no complaint could be made as to being kept indoors on account of rain. It's been very windy, by all means, but the shores could be found and fishing carried on with varying results.

Mother, Walter and I arrived here June 7th and only one and a half days has the elements prevented fishing or going somewhere. The catch has not been great, but very satisfactory. Only one day during the time have I landed at night "skunked"—without catching a fish. Walter's record is similar. Walter uses bait—worms and shiners, and I coax them to their death by flies. The heaviest fish was a four pound salmon taken on a troll, another salmon of equal weight was being landed on a fly by Charles F. Hoves, 40 Inman Street, Cambridge, Mass. He hooked the fish "foul"—under the front fin. Walter netted it after a half-hour's struggle for freedom. This is the biggest fish I've seen caught on artificial lure. Mr. Hoves hooked a salmon at Caribou Pond which undoubtedly was considerable larger, but it got free by breaking the hook in the shank in jumping out of water. Have heard tell of several fish and six pound fish being taken on a fly but I have not seen them as yet. None have come to Sugar Island since I have been here.

Horace C. Day of Auburn is reported having got several above four pounds on a fly. Also Mr. H. of Boston, Mr. Burgess, Lang & Co., while W. H. Burgess of the same firm was a close second with big fish. This is hearsay.

I have visited Caribou Pond eight times between June 15th and 27th and have caught there with fly 19 trout and 1 salmon and Walter has taken 6 with bait. Total Caribou catch was 26 fish, several of them were returned to the water as not wanted. On June 16th and 17th, 29 fish were taken. The largest, a four pounder, was caught by E. A. Greenleaf, trolling. The largest on a fly, 2 3/4 pounds, which came to the writer who fooled it with a "Yellow Sally" or "Yellow May." It was a fly in which yellow predominated.

A few years ago I over-ran the limit (15 pounds) with 15 fish taken on a fly within two hours and John Owens of Rockland, Mass., says he took seven trout at Caribou Point that weighed 26 pounds in a few hours' fishing. This was twenty odd years ago.

In the eleven trips here I have never seen so many fish in "Elgin's Dooryard" as the thoroughfare as this year. They were feeding on smelts and shiners. It is next to impossible to get a fish on a fly when taking shiners, though it is occasionally done on a "rooster's regret."

At the "Stump" in the Thoroughfare more than 100 trout have been taken. Have kept tabs and know of that number. I took seven as fast as they could be landed. That day's catch was 12 trout, 3 with fly and 4 with bait and a box of fish was sent home to be distributed among friends.

Elgin's "Dooryard" yielded 24 fish one day after being dressed and dried for shipping, weighed 23 1/2 pounds. Mr. Greenleaf, John Owens, Walter Smith and I caught them. Only two were taken with bait.

I have caught two "rainbow trout" and one weighed better than two pounds. They are built on a curve and are deeper and thicker, dark backs and black line on the side. There is less red on the fins than on the natives. There are several species or varieties of trout in this lake to say nothing about lakereels. It reminds me that I have not caught a lakereel on the trip. Have seen only one. Probably they have gone into deep water and can be found by "plugging" or deep trolling. Shall not resort to this until the trout refuse to rise, however much I prefer lakereels to eat than trout.

Four, five and more leaved clovers can be found in Elgin's lawn. John Owens got a half dozen and did not over exert himself and Bill Robertson, the guide, got the first one he ever found and carefully put it in his pocket-book, remarking that he had been looking for one for 38 years and that this was the first one he ever found and he was to save it for luck. Blackbirds and robins are as numerous as usual and the young robins are waddling about being taught to feed by their mother birds. Gulls and loons are in evidence as well as deer, who nightly disturb the sleepers in the "Bear's Den." At least the guides so report. I haven't seen one yet.

"Arthur Leaman, a guide from Monson, says he has to have six licenses so as to do business and get a living: A guide's license, a hunter's license, a dog license, an auto license, also a diver's permit and a license to convey passengers by auto. Six in all, costing $28.50. Had he a motor boat, another would have to be had. He really needs a motor boat. It would be useful in his business. He has two of the best trained and best behaved dogs I ever saw. They are of the cocker spaniel order.

Frank T. Authier, the Mud Pond hermit, is here guiding. He will be 75 come September 16th. He lived for almost a quarter of a century at Mud Pond, hunting, trapping and guiding.

G. W. Coombs of Belfast is the cook or perhaps I should say "chef." At any rate he admits crossing the Atlantic ocean 32 times and on one trip consumed 91 days. He can tie all kinds of knots for both land and sea hitch. I have learned many. Among them are the timber-hitch, sheep's-hank, fisherman's bend, fool's-knot, bowlings, simple and compound. He is all right with pots, pans and kettles and has the satisfaction of having his obituary written up by Tom Murphy and reading it a few days after, much to his amusement and that of Tom's, who was at the time of the loss of the "Portland" a reporter on the Kennebec Journal. The Coombs family have it posted in a scrap-book and read it occasionally to the heart of the house. It was extreme poverty and a lurking distrust of the weather that caused him to demand his money back for the ticket he had purchased and leave the Portland on that fateful night. Thus poverty or lack of ready money with him saved his life. He thought the boat would "ride out" the storm and being without funds he'd have to go hungry, hence he got his money back and came ashore and now lives in the story.

As this is a "truthful story," it is admissible to state the fact only hence and I will give the number of fish (trout and salmon) taken, also the kind of bait used on which they gave up their lives. Total number taken by Walter Smith and I was 101 and of this number 63 came to a fly and 38 to a baited hook or by trolling. Total number of hours spent in actual fishing (fly casting) 144 which is equivalent to 16 nine-hour days to catch that number of fish. Three boxes, ten pounds each, were sent home. Not all of the 101 fish taken were killed—small ones were returned—maybe 20 or 30, no record was kept of this. Perhaps you might like to know the expense in dollars and cents. I've estimated to tell it, but I don't know. Greenleaf's Camps is $3.50 each per day, and car storage at Greenville one dollar per day unless you look round a bit and get it for half that price. I mean car storage.

Mother planned a 5-leaved clover to me one day, saying I'd have great luck, and at night I had no fish at all. I have no faith in such whims. Investigation showed I left the coat with its charmed talisman in the camp and now Mother says I'd better give it a fair show and that we'll have to return here another year and try it over again and find out for a fact. Trout and four and five leaved clovers abound at Sugar Island. I'll be ready to go again when the time comes.

and learned their language and customs. Later in life he mixed with the cowboys and after entering the ministry, his labors were among those people along the frontier and in the mountains remote from civilization. Broken in health because of the arduous work, he accepted a pastorate in the Congregational church in Colbran, Col., which he instituted during his early missionary labors. Everybody was kept moving with no opportunity to play wall flower. A Victrola furnished the musical program. Punch and fancy crackers were served by the hostesses, Elsie Hardy, Pauline Mason, Hazel Heath and others assisting. This pleasant affair was a get-together for the purpose of meeting in a social way new members received into church fellowship during the last few months. About one hundred and twenty-five attended.

HARTFORD.

Many of the farmers of this town gathered at the farm of Winfield S. Robinson, Tuesday and witnessed a demonstration of fruit tree pruning and the building of a self-feeder for hogs.

George A. Yeaton of Norway, county agent for the University of Maine extension, conducted the demonstration.

A special feature of interest about this old farm, the birthplace of three generations of her ancestors, is that it is conducted by a woman, Winifred Robinson, a well known concert pianist and vocalist, graduate of the Halifax Conservatory of music and the New England Conservatory, who for two years sang in the Harvard Square church in Cambridge, Mass., and one year was first contralto in the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, New York City.

Last year her mother became seriously ill and her father a Civil war veteran, feared it would be necessary for him to abandon the farm. Miss Robinson came to his assistance and is carrying on the 100 acre farm with courage and ability that spell success. She is specializing in the raising of fruits, poultry and swine. It was her request that the county agent came here for his demonstration and the neighbors enthusiastically responded to her invitation to witness it.
